WHAT'S IN A NAME?

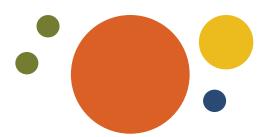

Many of you are probably wondering why we chose the word mosaic as the title for this guidebook for first year students of color. The word mosaic is typically used in reference to a "picture or pattern produced by arranging together small pieces of stone, tile, glass, etc" (Oxford dictionary). From a multicultural lens, the word mosaic can refer to a "cultural mosaic—the mix of ethnic groups, languages, religions, and cultures that coexist within society".*

MOSAIC

At the Center for Multicultural Affairs our goal is to empower students and their organizations to create a vibrant and inclusive multicultural student community. As a means of empowering students, we celebrate your various identities that make the authentic you and provide spaces for cross-cultural engagement. This guidebook is another means of empowerment, which we hope provides you with numerous campus and community resources that will assist in your transition to Duke. Each of you represent a small piece of the portrait. Welcome to Duke!

WELCOME

Dear Duke Students,

Welcome! The staff of the Center for Multicultural Affairs (CMA) has an extraordinary opportunity each year to welcome a new class of students. This time - it is you, undergraduate students who are members of the Class of 2020 and graduate & professional students whose time on campus with us will vary.

Coming to Duke is a new chapter for you and this year the Center is experiencing a new chapter as well. This fall semester represents the first time that students will experience the Center's recent expansion with staff and space on the lower level of the Bryan Center. We hope that you will visit us and that CMA will become a part of your experience here at Duke. Our Center has a unwavering commitment in connecting with students, understanding what matters to you and how your identities can influence your experiences throughout your years at Duke and beyond.

Getting to know students is a principal goal of the CMA. Part of that effort is achieved with CMA's vibrant undergraduate student staff known as FACEs (facilitators advocating for change and equity) as well as graduate/professional students on staff. At the core of it all, our professional and student staff values the differences you will bring to Duke. You will learn more about yourselves and others than you ever thought imaginable and CMA would like to be a part of that journey.

This publication, Mosaic, is only one more piece of a very large puzzle which will help you acclimate to the Duke campus. You will find a wealth of information re: campus and Durham community resources. We hope that you will take an opportunity to review this publication which features a few of the programs we will host this year as well as other resources we believe will be beneficial to you. When you have settled in, we hope that you will attend one of our programs, come by seeking a place of refuge or simply make yourself comfortable relaxing in the CMA studying, making new friends, etc. We have an open door philosophy and invite you to stop by any time during the hours of 9:00am and 5:00pm.

We are excited about your arrival to campus and look forward to getting to know you.

Sincerely,
Linda F. Capers
Director

EL KILOMBO INTERGALÁCTICO

At El Kilombo Intergaláctico, we are dedicated to bringing together people from student, migrant, low-income, and people of color communities to tackle the challenges we face in Durham, NC. We believe politics is an everyday practice of making and re-making our own lives on our own terms, rather than appealing to an outside force for concessions to better our lives. We therefore make decisions democratically in a community assembly and work cooperatively to build concrete solutions that meet our needs regarding health, work, housing, food, learning, and more. Our Social Center houses our many Programs and is the space out of which we have created various Projects. Simultaneous with our efforts in Durham, we are connecting with others around the country and world to create alternatives to a global capitalist system premised on exploitation, theft, displacement, and repression.

EL PUEBLO

El Pueblo is a North Carolina non-profit statewide advocacy and public policy organization dedicated to strengthening the Latino Community. This mission is accomplished through leadership development, proactive and direct advocacy, education, and promotion of cross-cultural understanding in partnerships at the local, state, and national levels.

DUKE CAMPUS

ACADEMIC ADVISING CENTER

The Academic Advising Center coordinates college advising for students in Trinity College until they declare their majors. We also work with Trinity and Pratt students across all four years to help them take full advantage of the broad range of opportunities available to Duke undergraduates.

Contact Phone: (919) 684-6217 Website: https://advising.duke.edu

ACADEMIC RESOURCE CENTER (ARC)

Welcome to the Academic Resource Center! We offer a variety of programs and services to support the academic work of all Duke undergraduates. Services are provided through the Academic Skills Instructional Program (ASIP), the Peer Tutoring Program (PTP), and the Program for Students with Disabilities (PSD). Students may receive highly individualized support through any of the three ARC programs. Opportunities for students to learn in groups are also offered each semester. "Selfserve" learning resources are available on our website. Here, students can assess their academic skills and learning styles using inventories and self-assessment surveys. Online learning strategy handouts are also provided to guide students' learning in courses. The professional staff members of the ARC collaborate to ensure that each student referred to the Center receives information and services based on individual academic support needs.

Contact Phone: 919-684-5917; Website: http://arc.duke.edu

THE CAREER CENTER

The Career Center provides services, programs, events, online tools and resources for undergraduates, graduate students and alumni up to four years after graduation from Trinity College, Duke's Pratt School of Engineering and the Graduate School. We partner with centers and colleagues across the Duke community to enhance career services for all Duke students as part of the "One Duke" initiative.

DUKE STUDENT WELLNESS CENTER (DUWELL)

The Student Wellness Center (DUWELL) helps students focus on their individual Wellness by looking at the integration of many areas of their life, including financial, social, spiritual, intellectual, mind-body well-being, and the environment around them. When we as community members are actively caring for ourselves, the community becomes strong and healthy. There is no "right way" of wellness that can be applied to all people, but there are common elements to guide us. Our goal is for the Duke community to be one that encourages caring for each of our members.

ASIAN AMERICAN ALLIANCE (AAA)

The Asian American Alliance is a student group that strengthens the political voice of the Asian American population at Duke and beyond. We create publications, teach courses, hold events, and invite speakers to explore Asian American issues and racial inequality. In doing so, we aim to organize a visible community to take action on problems facing Asian Americans and other minorities.

Please contact organization's president for more information

ASIAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION (ASA)(ASA)

To serve as a lobbying voice for and support the political, cultural and social interests of students of Asian Pacific heritage at Duke. To transcend social borders and foster relations with other groups on campus through community interaction. To raise awareness and provide an open space to learn about historical and contemporary issues facing people of Asian Pacific heritage. To strive to make Duke a campus where Asian Pacific students are not discriminated against or marginalized because of their racial, ethnic or national identities.

Email: asaatduke@gmail.com

BLACK STUDENTS ALLIANCE (BSA)

The Black Student Alliance supports and advocates on behalf of African and African-American undergraduate students at Duke University. We engage university administration and the student population in hopes of exposing individuals to various aspects of the black experience. BSA also strives to develop bonds between Duke and the Durham community as well as with neighboring universities.

CENTER FOR RACE RELATIONS

The CRR provides a safe space that challenges all individuals to think critically about human diversity in an environment open to all perspectives. Through sustained dialogue, academic engagement, social interaction, and experiential learning, the Center facilitates meaningful exchange within the Duke community in order to connect and empower groups and individuals across all identity lines.

Email: crrpres@gmail.com

DEFINING MOVEMENT (DEFMO)

Founded on the pillars of service and multiculturalism, Defining Movement was created out of a need seen on Duke's campus for a diverse organization that transcends the lines of race, gender, background, beliefs, and more. Defining Movement uniquely promotes acceptance, unity, and diversity through art. With a common passion for dance, students of completely different backgrounds come together to try new dance styles, explore other cultures, and learn more about one another, all while bringing their own experiences to the group.

Please contact organization's president for more information

DELTA SIGMA THETA SORORITY, INC.

On April 5, 1975, the Lambda Omega Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated was chartered on the campus of Duke University as the FIRST black sorority on campus. For more than 30 years, the Devastating Divas of the Lambda Omega Chapter have proudly served the Duke and Durham community. We are dedicated to public service at Duke and in Durham; programs under our organizations' Five Point Thrust to help create awareness and involvement amongst fellow students in the Duke community, as well as creating a sisterhood of lifelong friendship.

Please contact organization's president for more information

DUKE AFRICA

The purpose of Duke Africa is to provide an organization through which African students on campus, as well as other interested students can come together to celebrate African culture; to spread awareness about Africa's diverse history and culture to the larger Duke population; to provide community service in the Durham area, as well as aid to establishments and communities in Africa. The association will also serve as an educational resource about Africa in terms of exploring what role Africa can play in the global community of the 21st century.

PHI BETA SIGMA FRATERNITY, INC.

The Alpha Alpha Chi chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was chartered in Durham, North Carolina on October 24, 1993 by six men set on changing the atmosphere of Greek life on Duke University's campus. Their goal was to have an active historically Black Greek lettered organization on Duke's campus that reflected the principles of brotherhood, scholarship, and service. They also aimed to give back to the Durham community, following the Fraternity's motto "Culture for Service and Service for Humanity." In its early years, the chapter faced many obstacles, and by 1995 all of its members had graduated. Three years later, however, a group of young men with the same goals successfully resurrected the Alpha Alpha Chi Chapter on February 28, 1998. Ever since, the chapter has become a major presence in campus life at Duke as new members from diverse backgrounds continue to join the fold. To this point, the chapter has thrived for 20 years, and Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. has celebrated 100 years of success as an international organization. Each year the chapter reaches new heights in creating a legacy that will be felt at Duke for years to come.
