You receive an angry page from one of the discharge planning nurses. She has been asking your intern for the discharge paperwork for this patient since yesterday, and is furious that the intern has been rude and dismissive.

She wants you to “deal with it”. There have been “issues” with this intern before...

You get three emails sent for three consecutive days by a resident upset about her schedule. She reports that everyone else got more golden weekends than she did.

She wishes to discuss....

A resident mentions to you that he is concerned about a fellow resident who seems overwhelmed. Says his colleague is not sleeping and is skipping meals.
Conflict Resolution: The Role of the Chief Resident

Chief Resident

Patient Advocate
Faculty Advocate
Staff Advocate
Resident Advocate

Conflict Resolution: A Survival Guide

Rule #1
“Always get the whole story…”

Rule #2
“…from a first hand account of all sides”

Rule #3
“Identify the real issues”

Conflict Resolution: A Survival Guide

• Listen
• Listen
• Listen
• Don’t take sides
• It’s usually a communication thing…

Conflict Resolution: A Survival Guide

• Not every battle has to be your battle
• Do not confuse “venting” with “real issues”
• Take notes
• BE FAIR
• BE CONSISTENT
The Six Ds of Secondary Causes of Poor Performance

- Depression
- Distraction
- Deprivation (of) Sleep, food, social interaction
- Drugs
- Disordered Personality
- Disability

Systematic Approach to Mental Health Crises

- Step 1 ASSESS the severity
- Step 2 DIAGNOSE the problem
- Step 3 INTERVENE appropriately
- Step 4 FOLLOW UP

References

- A Textbook for Today’s Chief Medical Resident, 22nd edition(The Toolkit series) 2013 by Frederick K. Williams
- Handout by KeriLyn Gwisdalla 2009 from AAIM website

Conflict Resolution: A Survival Guide

“Do the right thing for the patient”

You receive an angry page from one of the discharge planning nurses. She has been asking your intern for the discharge paperwork for this patient since yesterday, and is furious that the intern has been rude and dismissive. She wants you to “deal with it”. There have been “issues” with this intern before...

You get three emails sent for three consecutive days by a resident upset about her schedule. She reports that everyone else got more golden weekends than she did.

She wishes to discuss....
A resident mentions to you that he is concerned about a fellow resident who seems overwhelmed. Says his colleague is not sleeping and is skipping meals.

Questions?

Lisa C. Pickett, MD
Chief Medical Officer, Duke University Hospital