Name of Potential Opportunity: Food-Energy-Water System Resilience Internship

Name and titles of potential supervisor/s (and link to external-facing RTI expert page, if available):

Name: Justin Baker, PhD
Title: Senior Economist and Director, Center for Applied Economics and Strategy, RTI International; 2019-2020 Duke-RTI Scholar

Name: Jennifer Hoponick Redmon
Title: Senior Research Environmental Scientist, Health and Environmental Risk Assessment

Overview: (2-4 sentences)
Timely opportunity for PhD student to support new high-profile Grand Challenge project focused on food-energy-water system resilience and sustainability. More specifically, research what impact COVID-19 disruption might have on food-energy-water system resilience and sustainability in the immediate, near and long-term.

Preferred skills: (including foreign languages, programming languages, etc.)
Data analytics and quantitative analysis or writing, qualitative research and literature review experience

Number of Interns: 1