Name of Potential Opportunity: Preventing Sexual Assault in the US Military

Name and titles of potential supervisor/s (and link to external-facing RTI expert page, if available):
Name: Nichole Scaglione, PhD
Title: Research Public Health Analyst, Substance Use Prevention, Evaluation, and Research Program,

Overview: (2-4 sentences)
Over the past 5 years, we have worked with the US Air Force to develop and test the feasibility and acceptability of implementing an innovative sexual assault prevention program in Basis Military Training. This opportunity would be to support analysis, reporting, and dissemination of data from the feasibility trial. There would also be opportunity to help with start-up on a newly funded extension of this work to adapt the intervention to the US Air Force Academy. Responsibilities might include preparing IRB materials, developing evaluation instruments, and preparing intervention content for implementation in the new training environment. There may be additional opportunities to contribute to the development and revision of manuscripts to be submitted for peer review.

Preferred skills: (including foreign languages, programming languages, etc.)
Quantitative data management and analysis, technical/scientific writing; experience communicating scientific findings to diverse stakeholders, including non-scientists; basic knowledge of study design/research methodology; interest in violence prevention or health behavior change more broadly
