Name of Potential Opportunity: Supporting grant proposals related to child development

Name and titles of potential supervisor/s (and link to external-facing RTI expert page, if available):
Name: Michael Willoughby, PhD
Title: Fellow, Education & Workforce Development

Overview: (2-4 sentences)
I will be working on a series of grant proposals this summer that cover a range of topics relevant to child development. Likely topics include a study investigating the effects of classroom lighting on child educational outcomes, a study that will develop a motor skills intervention for implementation in preschool classrooms, and a study that will evaluate the impact of an educational robotics program on cognition and early learning in K-2nd grade classrooms. Graduate students would provide support for this work and become exposed to the proposal development process.

I expect that this is a 10 hour/week position, so it could be shared with other RTI opportunities.

Preferred skills: (including foreign languages, programming languages, etc.)
Background in psychology and/or education, especially early and middle childhood; previous experience conducting literature reviews; strong writing skills.

Number or Interns: 1

Number of Hours per week: 10 hour a week
